

Center for Strategic & International Studies
Washington, DC

“Global Offshore: Past, Present and Future”

Wednesday, May 16, 2007

10:00 a.m. – 11:30 a.m.

4th Floor Conference Room, CSIS

Speaker:

Ivan Sandrea, Director, Pan Andean Resources

Ivan Sandrea, former principal oil supply analyst for OPEC, is currently Director of Pan Andean Resources, an E&P company with operations in Latin America and Petrel, with operations in Iraq. Mr. Sandrea previously worked as a global E&P analyst for Merrill Lynch in London, and prior to this as an exploration geologist for British Petroleum International. Mr. Sandrea holds a BS in geology from Baylor University, an MS in petroleum geology, and an MBA from Edinburgh University.

Moderator:

Herman Franssen, President, International Energy Associates

Herman Franssen is a Senior Associate at CSIS and President of International Energy Associates, a consulting company that provides economic analysis, conducts political risk assessments, and assists companies in establishing relationships with national oil companies and governments in the Middle East. He is also a senior associate with the PEL Group in London, with GDP Associates in New York, as well as with MEC and the Centre for Global Energy Studies in London. He is also an adjunct scholar with the Middle East Institute in Washington, D.C. Prior to establishing International Energy Associates in 1996, Dr. Franssen was the senior economic adviser to the minister of petroleum and minerals in Oman from 1985 to 1996.

This is a private, off the record event.

The Center for Strategic and International Studies (CSIS) is a nonprofit, bipartisan public policy organization established in 1962 to advance global security and prosperity in an era of economic and political transformation by providing strategic insights and practical policy solutions to decision makers.

For more information on this and other CSIS Energy and National Security Program Events, please visit our webpage at <http://www.csis.org/energy/>